NEW RISING AT FOOCHOW IN PROSPECT

Anti-Japanese Agitation Of Violent Character Continues At Port

WARSHIPS ARRIVE

Nipponese Vessels Steam Up River; Inquiry Is Opened

TOKIO IS HEARD

'Consular Guard' Will Be Landed If Necessary, Is Statement

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, November 27.—According to an official report issued here today violent anti-Japanese agitations at Foochow continue. The Japanese warships Saga Sakura and Tachisanacho have steamed up the river to Foochow.

It is expected that a joint investigation will be opened shortly.

STATEMENT ISSUED

Tokio, Nov. 27.—The Kokusai News Agency issues the following statement "with reference to Reuter's despatch from Peking of yesterday's date, stating that "Japanese marines had been landed at Foochow," and had expressed the intention of parading on shore and the desire "to enter the city," the Navy Department today declared that no marines would be landed on Chinese soil, unless they were so directed by the Home Government, but that the Chinese authorities must protect the lives and property of Japanese residents and merchants from violence, otherwise the landing of a Consular Guard in sufficient force to protect the lives, persons and properties of Japanese subjects would be unavoidable.

OPINION IN JAPAN

The recent reports of acts of violence committed by Chinese against Formosans at Foochow have stirred public opinion in Japan where it is believed that such acts are instigated for the purpose of forcing Japan to take military action, thereby increasing anti-Japanese prejudices both in China and abroad.

The situation is regarded as exceedingly serious by leading men in Japan, who, while opposed to a display of militarism, realise that the Chinese may force a situation in which the Japanese Government would be compelled to take such action as was consonant with the dignity of the country."

The statement concludes by emphasising the entirely friendly intentions of the present Government towards China, and its desire for a peaceful settlement of the present issue.

STUDENTS GET REPLY

Pekin, Nov. 27.—Representatives of the Students Union had an interview with Cheng Lu, Acting Minister for Foreign Affairs yesterday afternoon and inquired concerning the landing of Japanese marines at Foochow. It is understood that the Acting Minister for Foreign Affairs replied to the enquiry whether China had protested that a protest had been lodged.

Russian Wives Of Italians In Siberia Lose Husbands

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, November 26.—Since the arrival in Peking and Tientsin of the officers and men of the Italian Expeditionary Force in Siberia a story has been going the rounds of both cities that the officers of this detachment, at least, had some difficulty in making a safe get-away from Russian soil. It appears that when the departure of the Italian force became known at Omsk eighty Russian women called on the colonel in command of the detachment and requested transportation on the ground that they were the legal wives of 80 of the Italian officers. They told the colonel that they felt it absolutely necessary for them to accompany their husbands on the trip out of Russia, as otherwise they stood less chance than the proverbial snow-ball of ever seeing their husbands again. It was, they said, a long way from Omsk to Italy by the sea route, and they did not want to try it alone.

The Colonel agreed, so the story goes, that the 80 wives should make the trip. He pointed out to them, however, that it would be bad for discipline if they traveled on the same train with their husbands and the rank and file of the detachment and suggested to them as an alternative that they travel on his train, at the rear end of which he would provide them with four first and second-class cars in which they could be comfortable. The ladies accepted, and in due course the Colonel's train pulled out of Omsk, half an hour behind the troop train which carried their eighty husbands.

Evening came, and then night. The eighty wives went to bed in due course and were sleeping soundly when their train reached Krasnoyarsk. The troop train with the eighty husbands aboard pulled out, and half an hour after it went the Colonel's train, this time lighter by four cars. The eighty sleeping wives woke up in Krasnoyarsk the following morning, alone; and from all reports they are still looking through Siberia for their husbands.

Minted Dollar Basis For China With Shanghai Mint Projects Urged At Peking

Both Chinese And Foreign Interests Convinced Time To End Use Of Tael Has Been Brought By Financial Situation, Says Writer

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, November 27.—Mr. Putnam Weale in an article in the Peking Leader says:

"With curious unanimity all the interests in the country, foreign as well as Chinese, are at length convinced that the hour has sounded when the minted dollar must replace the tael.

It is an open secret that the principal foreign banks have declared their readiness to convert tael banking accounts into dollars and quote rates in dollars, the moment they are certified that Republican dollars are available in proper quantities.

MINT IS NEED

The crux of the currency question is the establishment of a mint at Shanghai. Nearly all the white metal arriving in China is landed at Shanghai and sent to melting houses where shoes of taels are turned out. The Bankers are able to rely on a constant supply of standard sycee. They keep their books therein and all large trade operations are based thereon. If they change to dollars they naturally require that the melting houses should be replaced, by a mint where the same scrupulous honesty which is given in the age-old sycee houses of high standing is duplicated.

Once it is realised that the dollar has become the sole legal currency and that no charge save legitimate seignorage can be levied at the mint a vast amount of hoarded bullion will come out of its hiding place and be sent for coinage.

The writer adds:

"The creation of a sub-Treasury of the Ministry of Finance to control the mint at Shanghai seems a politico-economic necessity, with a Director General of Currency in charge. During the darkest period of the revolution over a hundred million taels of silver were deposited with the foreign banks at Shanghai. The establishment of a mint and sub-treasury which would invite general confidence may bring to light a similar sum and begin a monetary reform which would fitly herald a new era and enable the Government to obtain accommodation for its pressing needs in its own market and do away with the necessity of foreign loans.

CENTRAL BANK

Allied to the currency question, is the problem of a Central bank. It seems expedient to follow the precedent of the British Chambers of Commerce and convoke a Chinese Bankers Conference in Peking to consider steps to create a Central Bank with adequate share capital."

The writer concluded:

"At the moment of writing measuring the volume of trade at 7/4 to the Shanghai tael, Chinese commerce is actually third in the world. This remarkable fact coupled with the fact that China is one of the few countries left on a cash basis, should encourage her quickly to grasp the opportunity of the hour. A free coinage of silver at Shanghai has become a world necessity."

VOTE ON CABINET TAKEN AT PEKING

Hsia Shao-kung With Chang Chih-tan Are Rejected; Two Posts Open

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, November 28.—The result of today's Parliamentary vote on the Cabinet was as follows:

Lu Cheng-hsiang, Foreign Affairs, 211 for 14 against.

Tien Wen-lieh, Interior, 158 for 9 against.

Li Shih-hao, Finance, 232 for 18 against.

Chu Shen, Justice, 200 for 8 against.

Chin Yun-peng, Premier and War, 202 for 5 against.

Sah Cheng-ping, Navy, 232 for 15 against.

Hsia Shao-kung, Education, 122 for 125 against.

Chang Chi-tan, Commerce, 73 for 173 against.

Tseng Yu-chun, Communications, 209 for 39 against.

Thus Hsia Shao-kung and Chang Chi-tan were rejected and the others were passed. In all, 251 members were present. The first vote was irregular owing to a preponderance of name cards. Another was taken and concluded after 6 p.m.

Report Describes Capture Of Mitau

(Reuter's Service)

Copenhagen, Nov. 24.—According to the Lettish official account of the capture of Mitau the storming of the town began at five a.m. on November 21. A fierce six-hour struggle ensued in which the desperate resistance of the Germans was broken and the town was then occupied by the Letts.

JAPAN READY NOW TO DEAL WITH PEKING ON SHANTUNG

Imperial Council Will Act As Soon As Peace Treaty Is Ratified

WAIT ON SENATE

Hitchcock Is Confident Compromise Will Be Worked Out Soon

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, November 27.—The Kokusa News Agency states:

"It is understood that the Advisory Council has decided not to increase the Japanese forces in Siberia.

"It is also understood that the Council has decided to open negotiations with China with a view to the return of Kiaochow and an arrangement regarding the former German concessions in Shantung as soon as the Peace Treaty has been promulgated."

Hitchcock Thinks Senate Will Act On Treaty

(American Press Wireless)

Washington, (by wireless) undated.—Senator Hitchcock Democratic Leader, in the Senate, replying to the declaration of Senator Lodge, Republican Leader, that the Peace Treaty issues should be settled in the coming presidential campaign, said that he was confident that a compromise would be worked out soon, by which ratification of the Treaty could be assured.

TAFT IS HEARD

New York, Nov. 24.—Mr. Taft, the Republican Leader, has issued a statement declaring that the defeat of the ratification motion in the Senate has been received by the country "with surprise and indignation."

"The American people," he says, "stood behind the War until the day of Victory. It now stands behind the Treaty with a like unanimity."

Further details of the United State's action on the peace treaty November 15 are contained in a report from Tokio of the substance of a despatch received there the following day by the Japanese Foreign Office. This dispatch said:

Following the rejection of the Lodge Resolution on Wednesday, by a vote of 55 to 39, the same resolution, in somewhat different form was brought up again on Thursday and again beaten, once by a vote of 53 to 39 and the second time for the day by 51 votes to 41. In each case, it will be noted, four Senators failed to answer the roll call and in each case the resolution failed to secure even a bare majority of the Senate, while a two-thirds majority was necessary.

OTHER SIDE BEATEN

Following the third and last defeat of the extreme reservationists, the Administration Senators, led by Senator McCumber, introduced various compromise motions, but in every case the so-called Moderate Reservationists voted against the motions and it was apparent that a deadlock had been reached.

In each vote, every Republican, with the exception of McCumber, voted with Lodge, while some Democrats also entered the divisions with him.

Senator Hitchcock, the Democratic floor leader, was therefore unable to introduce the minority report of the Committee on Foreign Relations, calling for the ratification of the Treaty with some

Surviving Sailors Of British Vessel Held In Mutiny Investigation

Survivors held in mutiny investigation. INTERNATIONAL

Four sailors of the British schooner Onato, rescued from the drifting ship several hundred miles off the American coast, are held in the investigation of a supposed mutiny on the ship. The captain and mate of the Onato are missing. When the four survivors were taken aboard the steamship Zerkel they stated that the officers had been crushed to death by shifting cargo in a heavy storm. Officers of the Zerkel, upon the arrival of the vessel at Philadelphia, declared that they saw a evidences of a fight aboard the Onato, as their vessel was bearing down to the rescue. The rescued sailors of the Onato are shown above. Left to right: Lorenzo Ash, Thomas Moulton, Douglas Nicol and Ernest Frizzard.

CALEDONIAN BALL COLORFUL AFFAIR; FIRST SINCE WAR

St. Andrew's Society Annual Dance Attracts 800 To Town Hall

ELABORATE DECORATIONS

Shields Of Scotch Regiments And Clans Prominent In Striking Scheme

'Twas Scots' night at the Toon Hall! The lads of the "Heelan" and their lassies—the sons of the original Douglas or Macgregor or Buchanan or McAlpine were there. 'Twas the annual Caledonian Ball and from early last evening till early this morning members of the St. Andrew's Society and their friends enjoyed foursomes and eightsomes, lancers and the Caledonians—aye, and waltzes, foxtrots and one steps.

'Twas the first Caledonian ball since the war. And many who were there served with Scottish regiments, the Black Watch or the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders; the Seaforths or the Gordons; the King's Own or the Tyneside's, in these or in any of the other six Scottish units that charged behin the lion rampant But last night, lad, they all forgot about the war! And so did the rest of the 800 who attended.

SHIELDS IN EVIDENCE

Shields of the 48 Scottish clans, with their coats of arms above them, were hung about the walls. The band stand was dotted with shields of the 12 Scottish regiments. The cross of St. Andrew, pure white and standing out in white incandescents on a dark blue background in the center of the ceiling, was the pivot of the decorative scheme.

From every direction strings of evergreen arched to the rim of the St. Andrew's cross, strings of evergreen marked with red, white, blue and green lights, all combining to give a splendid decorative effect.

On the East side of the ball room was hung an oil painting of the Patron saint of Scotland while the balcony above was marked out in strings of lighted evergreen.

At the opposite end of the hall

King Alfonso's Aunt Bares Family Row

(Kokusai Agency)

Paris, November 20.—"I refuse to submit further in silence to the lies, calumnies and attacks to which I have been subjected."

Infanta Eulalia, aunt of King Alfonso of Spain, makes this statement in a letter to the Paris newspapers, reviving popular interest in the row in the royal family of Spain which resulted in Antoine d'Orleans, the King's uncle, being bandished to Italy while the Infanta threw her lot in with the Germans, going to Munich, where she is now living.

Antoine recently stated that he had sold his castles and estates in Spain and had given $60,000 to his wife. About the same time he wrote to Premier Clemenceau, demanding readmission to France as an ordinary citizen. The Infanta now says she never received the money and intimates that if Antoine is admitted to France she will come too and make him surrender the money.

U.S. SCIENTISTS WILL USE PLANE TO REACH THIBET

Big Game Hunters, Back From Mongolia, Seek Quick Travel

Handley-Page superplanes will be used to transport American scientists to the heart of Chinese Turkestan next summer, if the plans now being matured by Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews of the American Museum of Natural History are carried out. With Mr. Harry R. Caldwell, missionary big game hunter, he has just finished a remarkably successful expedition into frozen Mongolia and leaves for America January 20 to organise his Thibetan expedition. This party will consist of perhaps 50 scientists and will be financed, it is expected, to the extent of approximately $500,000 and their object will be to "comb the Asiatic continent systematically for animal specimens." Mr. Andrews expects to return to China with his expedition in July.

PIAN IS FEASIBLE

The aeroplane arrangements have been taken up with the Chinese authorities in Peking and the co-operation of Col. Smallwood, there in charge of the technical side of the Government aeroplane program has been secured. Colonel Smallwood has passed upon the scheme as feasible. The trip by air is a matter of but a few days. By the usual land trails it is a matter of many months. One Handley-Page machine is capable of carrying 40 passengers easily.

Mr. Caldwell, who has been requested to take part in the projected expedition, passed through Shanghai yesterday on his way to

THOUSAND REDS IN HUNGARY TO ANSWER CHARGES

Trials To Open In Budapest Greatest Event Of Kind In History

TO BE FOUR TRIBUNALS

Hearings Of Leaders Who Are Out Of Country To Be Held In Their Absence

(American Press Wireless)

Budapest, Nov. 21.—Towards the end of the month, four tribunals sitting simultaneously will try 1,000 Bolsheviki now under arrest as the final liquidation of the four months of dictatorship of their party. The trial will be one of the most gigantic in history lasting several months with a veritable army of witnesses testifying.

One tribunal will try only the commissaries of the people, the second will try only terrorists, the third communists and counterfeiters, and the fourth those charged merely with robbery, blackmail and violence.

Unfortunately the principal leaders will be tried only in their absence as many of them, including Bolskaka, Teherny, Fegand, Landler, Varge, Lukaes, Corivan and Sanmely are either dead or safely interned in Austria or other countries which refuse to give them up. It is confidently expected, however, that the death sentence will be returned against them all. The trial will come as a result of the French effort to clean up the Bolshevik situation.

MANY NOT ARRESTED

The number of prisoners for trial would have been indefinitely greater except for the reason that the court decided not to incriminate Bolsheviki who were merely chargeable with political crimes since the first Hungarian revolution in October, 1918. No regular Government existed and it was held impossible to try any member of the party on the mere grounds of having conspired against the Constitution when at that moment the said Constitution was not being observed by the Eurolyis Government itself.

Hence the Government instructed the arrest of those persons only who were chargeable with the violation of common laws. Nevertheless, the police endeavored to make up for lost time by arresting a total of 10,000 of whom half were released on the first examination while another 3,500 were released on the second investigation. It is expected that another 500 will be released leaving 1,000 for trial. Of these, 300 rank as terrorists, while the others are charged variously with counterfeiting, robbery and violence.

Although it has been established that more than 3,000 persons disappeared completely during

Hungarian Administration Is Taken Over By New Government

(French Wireless Service)

Paris, November 27 (via Lyons and Koukaza).—According to a Rome message, it is reported that the Volunteers at Fiume have planned a raid on Trieste; also that d'Annunzio intends to start a militarist propaganda bureau in Italy.

The Tempo understands that Mayer Giurati, d'Annunzio's principal secretary, who came to Rome a few days ago with a mandate to negotiate with the Italian authorities on the Fiume question has left again for Fiume, having utterly failed in his mission.

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Nov. 24.—Signor Tittoni has resigned the post of Foreign Minister and the leadership of the Italian Peace Delegation owing to ill-health.

Rome, Nov. 25.—As the result of the Socialist victory at the elections a grave crisis is feared involving not only the Cabinet but the Ruling House.

Peace Treaty Is Signed By Bulgarian Delegates

(French Wireless Service)

Paris, November 27 (via Lyons and Koukaza).—The Bulgarian Peace Treaty was signed this morning at the Town Hall of Neuilly-sur-Seine. The three following diplomatic instruments were signed by the representatives of the Allied and Associated Powers and by M. Stambuliski, the Chief Bulgarian Delegate:

(1). The Treaty between the Allied and Associated Powers and Bulgaria.

(2). The "Protocol of Execution" attached to the Treaty.

(3). The Protocol fixing the period within which Rumania and Jugo-Slavia shall sign the Treaty.

The main clauses of the Treaty include.

(1). Abandonment of Thrace by Bulgaria.

(2). Cession by Bulgaria to Servia of the Strumnitza Bend and of the strip of land running north-west to the Servian frontier.

(3). Reduction of the Bulgarian army to 2,000 men.

(4). Payment of the sum 2,250,000,000 francs for reparations.

Paris, November 27 (via Lyons and Koukaza).—A Budapest telegram states that the new Hungarian Government has already taken ever the entire administration. The telegram adds that Sir George Clerk, the Allied Special Envoy, has gone to Western Hungary to investigate conditions on the spot and report to the Supreme Council in Paris.

CLEMENCEAU PRESIDES

(Reuter's Wireless Service)

Paris, November 27 (via Lyons and Koukaza).—M. Clemenceau presided at this morning's ceremony at the Town Hall of Neuilly-sur-Seine. M. Stambuliski, the Bulgarian Plenipotentiary, was introduced at 10:40. In addition to the Treaty and the two attached Protocols, the Convention regarding free emigration between Greece and Bulgaria was also signed.

The Allied Plenipotentiaries signed in the following order: United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan (Mr. Matsui), Belgium, China (Dr. Wellington Koo), Cuba, Greece, Portugal, Siam, Czecho-Slovakia. The Rumanian and Jugo-Slav delegates did not attend the ceremony, as they have not yet signed the Treaty of St. Germain with Austria. It is thought that they will

Living Cost Hits Harems

(American Wireless Service)

Constantinople, November 24.—Despite the Koran's authorisation of four wives to a man, the proportion of unmarried women in Turkey is increasing, chiefly because men are finding that more than one wife is expensive. Even the Sultan has reduced the size of his harem. In interior Turkey, maidens are so numerous that well-meaning natives are offering them as gifts to Americans for relief work. One angle of the situation is that bachelor maids are organising to take a part in politics, promising that women shall vote and have husbands also. Women are particularly anxious for a Turkish peace settlement, believing it will bring prosperity and make marriage less difficult.

sign the treaties with both Austria and Bulgaria within a week. The ceremony terminated at 11:15.

Minister Is Appointed As Hungarian Premier

(American Press Wireless)

Budapest, November 22.—M. Friedrich has assigned M. Charles Earzar, Minister of Public Education, to succeed him in the quality of Prime Minister. Earzar has the support of the Christian block and consented to succeed Friedrich if the latter failed in the attempt of forming a coalition cabinet.

The Socialists and National Democrats make reservations regarding this candidacy.

Paris, November 21.—That the Danes are preparing to obtain a plebiscite over Schleswig and are requesting the Allies to extend special immunities to the population and territory which it is expected will be annexed to Denmark following a vote, developed today in the sessions of the Peace Congress.

It is expected that the Allies will grant German subjects who come under Danish sovereignty restitution of all requisitioned property in Allied countries as well as immunity from participation in the payment of the German war debt. German propagandists in Schleswig, it is understood, are using as a campaign argument against annexation to Denmark the fact that Schleswigers possessed of certain wealth will lose in the settlement of the mark against Danish currency.

The Conference has finally settled the Galicia question by an Anglo-Polish compromise whereby Poland gets the Galician mandate under the League of Nations for twenty-five years whereafter the League will decide for the permanent disposition of the country. No provisions have been made, however, against the eventual non-existance of the League.

WAR MAY RESULT

Diplomats are in agreement that a war will probably result in case the League fails as the possession of Galicia will be disputed by the various nations around its frontiers, all of whom covet the rich territory.

The Senate action on the Treaty is now considered in all quarters of Paris as the first step to compromise along broad lines which will be sketched by party leaders before reconvening. It is pointed out that had the Treaty been finally rejected, the American delegates would have received instructions from the Department of State to withdraw from any active participation in the Conference.

So far no instructions whatsoever have been forthcoming to the American delegates and they have been obliged to form their own judgment of the situation from press dispatches to London and Paris.

Knotty problems have been presented by the delay incurred by America's decision by the presence of American troops on the Rhine and in view of the Allied determination to effect a Treaty terminating the Armistice by December 1. Questions have been asked as to what will be the status of the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine with the United States not a party to the ratification of the Treaty and the Armistic ended by Allied action. No solution of the problem has as yet been put forth by the Americans who are apparently considerably puzzled by the paradoxical situation created.

Budapests, Nov. 23.—The Christian Socialist, M. Huszar has formed a Coalition Cabinet. The elections have been fixed for January.

TOKIO REPORTS PLOT IN KOREA

Asserted Prince Yi Was To Come To Shanghai To Head Revolt

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, November 27.—A telegram from Seoul reports that Prince Yi, eldest son of the former Emperor of Korea was induced to leave Seoul for Shanghai with the object of accepting the headship of the Provisional Government of Korea. The authorities were however informed in time and Prince Yi was intercepted at Antung railway station and brought back to Seoul together with a Korean who is one of the leaders of the Korean revolutionary party.

It is added that a conspiracy has been completely exposed by which it had been planned to start a revolution in Korea at a given date simultaneously in many centers of the country. The plot failed, the telegram states in conclusion, owing to the activity of the Governor General.

EXCHANGE RATE IS BOOSTED FOR FARE TO AMERICA

Tickets For Trans-Pacific Journey Not To Cost Less Than Mex. $288

The fare from Shanghai to North American ports on the West Coast will be at least Mexican $288 despite the prevailing high rate of exchange. Announcements made yesterday by local agents of trans-Pacific lines arbitrarily fixed the rate, the notices reading "in no case shall the number of Mexican dollars collected be less than the tariff gold amount of the fare."

All of which means that it is possible to travel cheaper across the Pacific to Shanghai (speaking in terms of gold dollars) than from Shanghai to America.

Formerly, because of the high exchange rate, a ticket to America could be purchased at less than its gold dollar face value because the Mexican dollar is at present worth more than its American brother coin. About Mex. $250 was all that was needed for a ticket valued at G. $288 before the ruling so that an appreciable increase is made in the traiff.

Passengers booked on the Empress of Asia, sailing to Vancouver today, will not be required to pay the Mex. $288 as all tickets have been issued.

Here is the notice sent out by the companies:

"Instructions have been received from head offices of trans-Pacific lines to the effect that in ticketing through business from China ports to America, in no case shall the number of Mexican dollars collected be less than the tariff gold amount of the fare. That is to say, the minimum amount in Mexican dollars, Shanghai to America, for first class ticket, will be $288—corresponding to the gold dollar quotation."

French Lottery To Get Building Fund For Rehabilitation

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Nov. 24.—Eight million francs worth of State-guaranteed five percent premium bonds of five hundred francs each will be issued at 495 francs from December 12 to October 23, tax free, for the purpose of reconstructing the devastated regions.

The bonds will be redeemable in seventy-five years or at quarterly drawings, when there will be prizes of a million and half a million francs, five prizes of 100,000 francs and forty prizes of 50,000 francs.

Residents of Shanghai will have opportunity to participate in the new French Government lottery loan of four billion francs, floated for the express purpose of rebuilding the devastated provinces of Northern and Northeastern France.

The sale of bonds begins today at the Banque Industrielle de Chine and are in denominations of 495 francs, which at yesterday's rate of exchange was equivalent to Mex. $45. The bonds cannot be recalled by the Government before 20 years and may run as long as 75. When they mature they will be cashed at 600 francs. In addition there will be prizes, the largest of which is 1,000,000 francs. Prize drawings will be four times a year and the year's total of awards will be 10,000,000 francs.

The lottery loan is handled through a special bank known as the Credit National, created solely to raise money for the reparation of war damage. All returns and profits will go to rehabilitating the destroyed area. Arrangements have been made by the local Manager of the Banque Industrielle de Chine to receive applications until the evening of December 14 They will then be telegraphed to Paris without charge to the subscriber. The awards of prizes will be made from Paris.

Bolshevist Advance Is Now 200 Versts Beyond City Of Omsk

Reconstruction Of Siberian Cabinet Is Continuing At Irkutsk

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Irkutsk, Nov. 27.—The communique issued by General headquarters today says: "The situation is unchanged. Fighting with alternating success 200 versts east of Omsk our troops are still holding the station of Chany."

In the Altai district there has begun a general anti-Bolshevist uprising, in which the whole population from boys of fifteen to old men of eighty are voluntarily joining the local peasant troops. The Supreme Ruler has instructed the authorities to give every assistance to the peasants movement.

It is stated that the reconstruction of the Cabinet continues. The resignations of the Minister of Finance M. Goyer, the Minister for Foreign Affairs M. Sukin and the Minister of Justice M. Teiderg have been accepted. It is stated that the Minister of Commerce M. Tretiakov who is due to arrive in Irkutsk will play an important role in the new Cabinet.

Messages from Harbin, Blagovechensk and Habarovsk report that the populations of those places thoroughly disapprove of General Caida's recent revolt.

The government intends to grant extended cultural and national liberties to the Mahometan population of Siberia.

The Mahometans are convoking a general assembly to organise the defense of the country against the Bolsheviki.

Irkutsk, Nov. 26.—Today's General headquarters communique stated that the situation on the front is unchanged.

M. Chervenedaly, Member of the Economic Council has taken over direction of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs.

American Committee To Take Up Credits

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Nov. 24.—Acting on the recommendation of the recent International Trade Conference a National Committee has been organised to study the supply of long-term credits for European purposes.

The United States personnel includes former President Taft and Charles M. Schwab, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Smiles from the Mixed Court

An uncontrollable desire for possession of foreign conveniences, appurtenances and habiliments led a coolie, booked as Dzung Isungyoung, into the Mixed Court and a term of 14 days confinement. An English lady, residing in Great Western Road, was standing before an exchange shop in Siccawei Road when she dropped her handbag. Dzung seized it and, inventorying the contents, found a pocket handkerchief and a Mex. dollar. The money had no great appeal for him, he gravely informed the authorities, but possession of a genuine, foreign handkerchief was his idea of the ultmate in an ideal existence And so he fled with the bag.

British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Li decided that a fortnight behind the bars might give Dzung a better perspective as to questions of private and public ownership.

THE EVILS OF BOOKS

Literary pursuits have ever led mortals into thorny paths. Ong Gee-ng, an employe of the Commercial Press, is quite convinced that books are an evil influence and has determined that never again will be be tempted to browse in the Elysian fields of the printed page. It appears that Ong attacked literature on a broad scale—fourteen dozen volumes of his employers' stock having followed him home one night—and now he has taken up his residence in the municipal jail, which is to be his home address for the next three months.

LOSING A BED

Waung Yiu-ding came home one day recently and missed his bed and a flock of wearing apparel. He immediately lodged complaint against his barber, Kyang Ong-zeu, who happened to possess a bed and some clothing. The tonsorial artist emphatically refused to part with the possessions he claimed as his own and Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Li agreed with him in his contention of innocence. And so today Kyang is waiting on his customers and Waung is minus a bed and a wardrobe. The fact that the complainant was able to appear against the accused indicates that the Chinese are advancing beyond the old American custom of going to bed while the tailor presses "the" suit.

HE COUNTED THE CASH

Inability to distinguish between his own funds and those of his employer, Kuang Z-ziang, resulted yesterday in Kyang Young-kgi being given a six months trip to the municipal jail. He was charged with having allowed Taels 210, belonging to his boss, to stick to his fingers when he counted the office cash. He was registered by the police as a broker. But his employer refuses to believe that Kyang is "broke."

SUNDAY SERVICE LEAGUE

Dr. F. H. Burt, president of the Y.M.C.A. College at Chicago, will speak tomorrow at the meeting of the Sunday Service League at Martyrs' Memorial Hall, 120 Szechuen Road, at five o'clock in the evening. His topic is to be "Wanted A Man." Dr. Burt is one of the leading Y.M.C.A. secretaries in America. Two special features are to be included in the musical program.

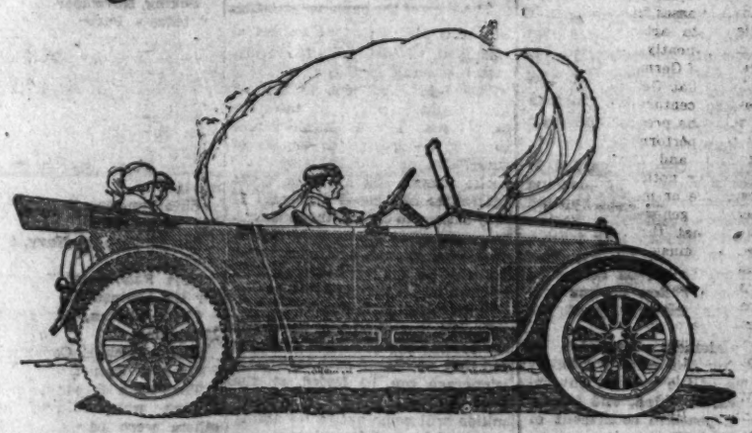
Overland Model 90



APPEARANCE

In appearance they represent the highest perfection of modern streamline design—with full-sweeping lines and low-hung stylish effect. Every owner of an Overland has pride in ownership. Every Overland owner is an unpaid salesman for our account—all his friends want to buy one.

PERFORMANCE

They are equally pleasing in performance. Each has an abundance of power for its weight, delivered by an engine that runs smoothly and quietly. Flexibility has been developed to a remarkable degree, and the pick-up is swift, smooth and sure.

COMFORT

Your comfort has been well taken care of in these cars—better than in most cars of much higher price. Judge this for yourself by riding in one. The seats are wide, seating five people—the backs are high and shaped to ensure comfort, and the driver has ample room.

SERVICE

The service is founded on definite policy that aims to eliminate delays and to keep every Overland owner in full and uninterrupted enjoyment of his car. And the permanence of this service is made certain by an organisation of vast resources and unquestioned stability.

America Coming To Fore, Musically, Says Mrs. Drake

By Helen Williams

America is coming into its own in a musical sense, according to Mrs. F. D. Drake, who spoke yesterday before the Musical Department of the American Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. A. F. Tenny. Commenting on the fact that because of war conditions students, who, would ordinarily have left for Europe to study, had an opportunity to find out the value of their home teachers, Mrs. Drake pointed out that the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York has recently employed American vocalists, nine new members having been added to the company this season. The result is, she said, that there is now talk of a national conservatory of music.

The program was as follows:

1. A Brief talk on Current Musical Events .. Mrs. F. D. Drake.
2. English Ballads and Light Operas ....Mrs. F. D. Drake.
3. Ballads ..Mrs. Frank Rawlinson
   (a) "Oh, The Oak and the Ash.'
   (b) "Passing by."
4. Three songs from Chu Chin Chow ..... Mr. Burman.
   Accompanist Miss Mary McConnell
   (a) "Cobbler's Song."
   (b) "My Desert Flower."
   (c) "Corraline."
5. Two songs from the "Gondoliers" ..Mr. C. D. Giauque.
   Accompanist Mr. M. G. Tewsbury
   (a) "Take a pair of Sparkling Eyes" .....Mr. Burman.
   (b) "My Dearest Heart" ..... Mr. Burman.
6. Two songs.
   Accompanist Miss Mary McConnell
   (a) "For you Alone."
   (b) "Invictus."

Mrs. Drake read two papers, one on "English Ballads and Light Opera" and the other, a "Brief Talk on Current Musical Events."

She divided her first paper, "Brief Talk on Current Musical Events" into two classes, the first big public movements and the second news items of personalities in the musical world. She said:

"The world war has changed conditions so that America is coming into its own in a musical sense. Students who would formerly have flocked to Europe have been forced to study at home, and as a consequence the really fine American teachers have had an opportunity to come to the fore. They have evidently been successful. It is significant fact that the Metropolitan Opera Company has recently employed American singers, nine new members having been added to the company this season. The result is that there is at the present time talk of a large national conservatory.

"By far the greatest event from a musical standpoint, is the bequest of the late Mr. A. D. Juilliard of New York City, for the establishment of a musical foundation in America. It is estimated that this bequest amounts to about $20,000,000. The object of this gift is to provide free concerts for the education of the public, to assist all worthy students, to encourage composition and to aid the Metropolitan Opera Company.

"The subject of German music is causing heated and serious discussions as to whether or not it shall be included in programs given in the United States and Allied countries. There is a great diversity of opinion and those who are discussing the subject may be divided into three classes those who entirely dissociate art from politics. They consequently favor complete restoration of German music; those who claim that German musicians of previous cenpturies had nothing to do with the present war and so favor the performance of their works only, and last, those who want to hear nothing German, of whatever age or merit.

"Speaking generally it must be admitted that the consensus of opinion of musicians and people interested in music falls into the first two classes. The Wagnerian compositions are the basis of the greatest bone of contention as it is said that his martial music typifies the spirit of the Germany of 1914. Then again it has been pointed out that Wagner was a revolutionist and that he lived in Switzerland for years as an exile.

"In Italy, Toscanini has put German music on his program, as has Pierre Monteux, a Frenchman, who is the conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The Metropolitan Opera Company is going to present an English version of 'Parsifal' and possibly "Lohengrin."

"Regarding personalities in the musical world, there have been two deaths of prominent men in this country, one being Oscar Hamerstein, who died in New York, and Leoncavallo, who died in Rome. Oscar Hammerstein was a famous and successful producer. Leoncavallo was chiefly known to the world as the composer of "Pagliacci." Paderewski has deserted the musical field for that of politics, and is Premier of Poland. Fritz Kreisler will again play before American audiences this season. Emmy Destinn, who now calls herself Destinnova, has returned to America after being held on her estate in Czecho-Slovakia during the entire period of the war.

"A choir composed of 70 voices and selected from such choirs as the Sistine Chapel is touring America giving a series of concerts. The famous Sistine Chapel choir of the Vatican is in the United States. The Gallo English Opera Company which toured the Pacific Coast last season and which had such a tremendous success, will make a transcontinental tour this season. This time they expect to enter the field of light opera and they will probably revive the old favorites such as 'The Mikado' 'Pirates of Penzance,' 'Pinafore', and 'Chimes of Normandy.'

"The death of Adelina Patti, on September 27th, in her seventy-seventh year occurred in her Welsh castle.

"In Europe music is experiencing a tremendous onward movement. Music is receiving more widespread attention in London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and the Italian cities than ever before. One prominent manager expressed the situation well by saying that "England is burying war's memories in floods of music."

In her paper on "English Ballads and Light Opera" Mrs. Drake spoke of the lack of development in these branches of music in England for at least 150 years after the time of Handel and Mendelsohnn. The reason was that the public insisted that all music must be fashioned after the style of these two famous composers, and this made progress impossible as the public refused a fair hearing to the claims of the new romantic school.

Therefore England has done nothing of value in the musical world in either opera, symphony or piano music, until within the last century, during which time a group of able men have come into prominence. One of these men is Arthur Seymour Sullivan, whose delightful comic operas. "Pinafore," "Patience" "Pirates of Penzance" and "The Mikado" have won international fame for the composer. A great part of the popularity of these operas must be attributed to the keen humor and satire of W. S. Gilbert, as it is these qualities which have given the operas value as literature.

SOCIALIST SPLIT SEEN IN FRANCE

Outcome Thought To Be Probable Is An Organisation Of Moderate Faction

(American Press Wireless)

Paris, November 21.—The opinion is growing in labor and Socialist circles that the failure of the campaign of the Socialists in the recent election is likely to result in a permanent split in the Socialist Party with perhaps an organisation of the Moderate Socialists with such men as Albert, Thomas and Ruensudel as leaders. A great many Socialists charge the extremists, now forty less than at the last election, with more than a half million votes lost. A very strong current has been flowing since the election against talk as opposed to work and in favor of leaving the laborers to settle their affairs apart from party politics.

'Y' SECRETARIES BANQUET GUESTS

National Committee Fetes 150 Delegates To Big Hangchow Meet

One hundred and fifty Y.M.C.A. secretaries from far North Kirin, from remote Sianfu and impenetrable Yunnan, gathered last night at the Yi Ping Shan Hotel as guests of the National Committee, Y.M.C.A., at a banquet, which marked the conclusion of the tri-annual meeting in Hangchow of Y.M.C.A. secretaries throughout China.

Dr. Fong F. Sec, president of the National Committee presided. Principal speakers were Mr. David Z. T. Yui, general secretary of the National Committee, Mr. J. Harold Dollar, president of the American Chamber of Commerce; Dr. J. W. Lowrie of the China Continuation Committee, Dr. Frank Burt, president of the Y.M.C.A. Training College, Springfield, Ill.; and Dr. C. Y. Chen of the China Continuation Committee.

Mr. J. Rausmussen, representing Manchuria, Mr. C. H. Fei, delegate from North China, Mr. R. R. Service of West China, Mr. S. C. Leung of Canton, The Rev. T. K. Hu of Central China and K. S. Zee of the Shanghai association, spoke on behalf of their sections.

Messrs. K. F. Li, O. Magill, George Fitch, R. K. Vergard and Wagner sang.

TRIBUTE TO ASSOCIATION

Dr. Fong Sec, in his speech of welcome on behalf of the National Committee, said he was impressed with the fine class of men who are in China to uphold the principles of the Y.M.C.A. movement. The foundation of the association, which was laid down by such men as Mr. D. W. Lyon and Mr. F. S. Brockman was strong and firm and it is gratifying, he said, that the men after them are of large caliber and great possibilities. He looked forward to great achievements in the near future.

An ovation was accorded Mr. David Yui when the chairman called on him to speak. He emphasised the importance of international co-operation in the development of the spiritual, educational and physical training of the young men of the world.

"The youth of China is the hope of the nation," said Mr. Yui in part. "The Y.M.C.A. is essentially an organisation to serve the young men of China. Even as late as ten years ago, the Y.M.C.A. was not a Chinese organisation. It was only upon the establishment of the Republic that it was formally recognised as a Chinese organisation.

"With this change, Chinese began to feel a new sense of responsibility not only in financial support but also in furnishing the men to work for the movement. During this short period, the annual budget has been increased to hundreds of thousands of dollars and from staff of 30 or 40 to 300 men.

ONE FOR EVERY CITY

"But we should not stop here. We should not stop until every city has its Y.M.C.A. There is no line of demarcation between the cities and the provinces or even the nations in the Y.M.C.A. spirit. In this connection, I might say, and proudly say, that the Y.M.C.A. is the only organisation in China which has this spirit of union. The point is, we should not be content with a national Y.M.C.A. The Chinese Y.M.C.A. should be closely connected with the Y.M.C.A.'s of the United States, Great Britain, Italy and all other foreign countries.

"The spirit of love, sacrifice and service which is the spirit of Christ will tie all men in the movement in the bonds of common interest. I realise that this same spirit of Christ is found in the foundation of the Y.M.C.A. movement."

Dr. Burt, in complimenting the work being done by the secretaries of the association, humorously said he would address the American and the Chinese secretaries separately. He advised the Americans, to book their passage at the first opportunity for the United States and look for new jobs as he did not see why they should remain here, now that China has such a well-trained delegation of secretaries. To the Chinese, he said he had but one word of counsel—"keep going." In America, many a successful business man has said it was hard for him to earn his first $1,000. After that, money came in easily. He said that the Chinese secretaries have passed the difficult stage and are well along the road to victory. They have started right and are winning.

MR. DOLLAR SPEAKS

Mr. Dollar stated that he felt greatly honored by the greeting he received from men who have done so much for the welfare of China. Indeed, China depends on her young men for her future and the Y.M.C.A. in giving these youths their intellectual, spiritual and physical training, is doing a great service for the country. The speaker realised that Young China will soon take its right place in the world situation and the Y.M.C.A. is playing no small part in assisting her to attain this position.

Mr. Lowrie spoke on the democracy of the Y.M.C.A. Movement, pointing out the fact that its spirit of fellowship and service has traveled from Great Britain to the United States and from thence to China.

Dr. Chen said that although China does not lack religious, intellectual or healthy men, she lacks men with all the three qualities. The Y.M.C.A. in giving equal emphasis to the three is developing a type of manhood, which will serve China in a most useful way.

Mr. Rausmassen said that although he represented a border province, generally considered outside the limits of China proper, the spirit of the Y.M.C.A. has made him feel that there is no line of demarcation between his city and others represented at the banquet.

from the picture of St. Andrew was a cloth partition which obscured the supper room. On this kilties in silhouette treaded on a band of Royal Stewart tartan decorated with thistles. The kilties were enlargements of a drawing by Miss Ima McColl, daughter of Mr. D. McColl, who headed the committee on decorations.

The decorating committee did not confine their efforts to the hall. The entrance and the main stairway were adorned with festoons of greenery and many colored lights.

BANDS AND ORCHESTRA

Two bands played for the long program of 24 dances. For the lancers and other square dancers the Municipal Band played. The Astor House jazz orchestra played for the modern dances. It was a veritable battle of music with the bands alternating.

Supper was served at midnight while lighter refreshments were served during the evening at a buffet in the Northwest corner.

The committee in charge of the enjoyable affair includes President Gavin L. Campbell, Vice-President Donald MacDonald, Messrs. M. B. Anderson, A. S. Campbell, R. G. Dowie, A. T. Downie, F. Ferrier, C. W. Porter, John Prentice, C. J. Scott, A. G. Stephen, Gavin Wallace, Dr. H. C. Patrick, Dr. A. C. Bryson, Mr. R. A. Stuart, honorary secretary, and Mr. A. W. Macphail, honorary treasurer.

The committee on decorations was composed of Messrs. D. McColl, C. W. Porter. R. G. Dowie and F. Ferrier.

The stewards of the St. Andrew's Society are Messrs. C. M. Bain, B. A. Clarke, J. Cruikshanks, George Dunlop, W. F. Inglis, I. S. Law, J. Macbeth, C. G. Mackie, D. McColl, A. V. Monk, J. Ramsay, T. G. Smeaton, J. B. Sweet, A. M. Wilkie and N. C. Wilson.

the Bolshevik regime, the investigators have been only able to return 600 formal charges of murder. Likewise, while Sanmely's, Tcheray's and Coriven's terrorist bands, totaled 600 members only 300 alleged terrorists are under arrest.

CHARGES DEFINED

The formal action against Bolskaka and the other Commissaries of the people hold them responsible for all crimes committed by the terrorists bands organised and acting under their orders up to the actual moment of their arrest despite the fact that the Commissaries claimed that they had ordered the bands disorganised for having killed their hostages.

They are held similarly responsible for all executions ordered by the Revolutionary Tribunals, officers and proprietors, who before their executions were horribly tortured. They are likewise charged with having ordered the pillage of banks and private houses as well as appropriating large portions of the booty ostensibly requisitioned and charged with wrecking the fortunes of the States and counterfeiting several billions of bank notes. The formal charges also specifically allege that Bolskaka and his associates personally ordered several assassinations, notably two Ukranian officers who Bolskaka ordered drowned in a lake directly in front of the building occupied by the Commissaries of the people.

The Hungarian police have only succeeded in arresting about fifteen unimportant Commissaries while all the principal offenders are safely interned in Austria or elsewhere. It is expected that the four tribunals trying the entire number will return the greatest number of death penalties ever turned out by any preceeding trial.

FRENCH DEPUTIES MEET

(French Wireless Service)

Paris, November 27 (via Lyons and Koukaza).—The deputies for Alsace-Lorraine meet today at Strasburg to draft the terms of the declaration which will be read in the Chamber when it reassembles on December 8.

Chang Tso-lin Urges Changes On Frontier

Peking Advised To Appoint General Wu Chun-chang Commandant

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 27.—General Chang Tao-lin is again urging the Government to appoint General Wu Chun-cheng Commandant of the North Eastern Frontier Defense Force. He suggests stationing the Commandant at Khailar instead of at Taonanfu as originally advocated.

The Russo-Chinese agreement regarding the administration of that section of territory was made in 1915. In 1918 the Tartar General revolted against the Government and declared himself in favor of the old monarchy but not receiving monarchical support he sought to make terms with the Republic. A representative of the Russian Legation acted as intermediary and the Tartar General returned to his allegiance on conditions which he claimed amounted to autonomy. It was understood that a secret agreement existed between the Russians and the Tartar General but the contents were never known.

Evidence Collected For Kaiser's Trial

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 24.—Reuter's Agency learns that the Allies have collected quantity of the most valuable evidence of a very far-reaching character in support of the indictment and trial of the ex-Kaiser.

London, November 25.—The Daily Mail says that it is expected that Holland will grant the application for the extradition of the former Kaiser immediately after the Treaty of Peace is ratified and that the trial will begin in London after the New Year.

Plot Of Royalists Discovered At Athens

(Reuter's Service)

Athens, Nov. 24.—A plot engineered by retired pro-Constantine officers to murder M. Venizelos and overthrow the present regime has been discovered and number of arrests have been made. A minute enquiry is proceeding at which full avowals have been obtained.

The culprits will be courtmartialed immediately.

CHILL OF THE LIVER

is a frequent cause of sickness at this time of year. Therefore keep your liver active, your system clean and your body healthy by the occasional use of thus avoiding chills and colds, constipation, bilious attacks, sick headaches.

Pinkettes are tiny but thorough, act as gently as nature. Of chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Official Peking Banquet Given American Bankers

Cabinet Ministers, Ex-Premier And Others Attend Reception For Promoters Of New Chinese-American Project

Peking, November 26.—On Tuesday evening the ex-Prime Minister, Mr. Chien Nung-hsun and Mr. Hsu En-yuan, promoters of the Chinese-American Bank, gave a banquet in honor of Messrs. Stone, Wiggin, Bruce and Meyer in the New Waichiaopu Building.

Over one hundred and fifty guests were present, among whom were all the Cabinet-Ministers, Vice-Ministers and prominent merchants of Peking. Ex-Premier Chien and Mr. Hsu En-yuan welcomed the American visitors who are important partners of the Chinese-American Bank.

Mr. Stone responded on behalf of his colleagues. The gathering was a big and brilliant affair and was a great success.

MR. CHIEN'S WELCOME

In welcoming the guests, Mr. Chien said:

Gentlemen.—We are very grateful for all the American and Chinese friends who honor us by their presence here this evening. Our newly arrival guests who are the present greatest enterpreneurs of industries and the greatest capitalists, well known in Europe and America, need no introduction from us. It is really a rare opportunity to us that they kindly come to visit this country and meet our friends of the official and commercial circles in Peking this evening here. It is true that the friendship between two countries depends upon the intimate relation of their governments, but it depends, still more, upon the intercourse between their peoples. The national friendship between the United States of America and our country, the two great Republics on the two coasts of the Pacific, has been, and is always, most cordial, and their relation more and more intimate every day.

The most important thing to do at present is to have more intercourse between the two peoples. The best way to attain this end is for them to visit each other's country, so as to interchange their knowledge and experience, and to foster good and sincere feeling. The present visit of our American guests is first paid to our Capital and will be extended to the southern provinces. We entertain the desire that they may visit more places and get into touch with the people. We are quite sure that they will be accorded the warmest and heartiest welcome wherever they arrive. We also hope that they may return to America with the satisfaction and pleasure in knowing our customs and seeing the scenery and antique relics of our country, along their route. This will be highly beneficial to the already intimate friendship between the two peoples. I now beg to raise my glasses to welcome our American guests and to drink their health.

MR. HSU EN-YUAN'S SPEECH

Mr. Hsu En-yuan in supporting Mr. Chien's welcome to the American guests said:

Gentlemen, on my return from the trip to the United States, I have been honored by the company of Mr. Stone, Mr. Wiggin, Mr. Bruce and Mr. Meyer, who are all leading financiers of America. In honor of those distinguished guests, ex-Premier Chien Nung-hsun and myself have arranged this party. Our object in giving this dinner is twofold, namely, first to welcome them, and secondly, to introduce them to the representative citizens of this country. Both ex-Premier Chien and myself naturally feel highly honored by your presence on this occasion.

I went to America on the invitation of the American partners of the Chinese-American Bank, and indeed it is a great privilege to me to meet them. From what I have seen in America, I am more than ever convinced that the United States is the most advanced of Republics. Her excellent political institution, and her immense financial resources are well-known to the whole world. The financial power of the United States has been greatly developed ever since the European War. The republican institution in our own country is yet in its infancy, and we should try to follow as far as possible the footsteps of the United States so that reforms may be carried out and the industrial and financial resources of China may be adequately developed. May the two Republics situated on the two shores of the Pacific Ocean actively co-operate with each other. In saying this, I am not only expressing my own wish, but also I am voicing the wish of all our countrymen. I do not doubt for a moment that our American friends are entertaining the same wish, and will do all they can to have it realised.

CLOSER RELATIONSHIP

The present visit of Mr. Stone and his colleagues to this country marks a new epoch in the relationship between the industrial captains and leading financiers of the two countries. Moreover Mr. Stone and his colleagues are important partners of the Chinese-American Bank, which will work in a practical way for closer business relationship between the two countries. In organising the Chinese American Bank, our purpose is to utilise the surplus capital of America for the development of the industrial and financial resouress of China. Therefore the activities of the Bank will be rigidly confined to commercial lines and politics will be singularly left alone. Through the adoption of such a policy we believe that our Bank can better serve the industrial and business communities and advance the mutual interests of the two countires. In these few words, I have tried to define the object of ex-Premier Chien and myself in promoting the Chinese-American Bank, which object Mr. Stone and his colleagues have promised to assist in achieving.

In conclusion I must not forget to add that during my recent hurried visit to America, the American Government, the American Bankers and industrial leaders and others have extended to me a warm welcome and shown to me unusual courtesy and kindness for all of which I felt highly honored. All of my friends are intensely grateful, for the unusual honor shown to me is another demonstration of the friendly relations between the two countries. Now that Mr. Stone and his colleagues are visiting in Peking our country is also anxious to extend to them a most warm welcome. May I request you to drink to the health of Mr. Stone, Mr. Wiggin Mr. Bruce and Mr. Meyer.

MR. STONE'S REPLY

Mr. Stone replied as follows:—

If I were to attempt a thousand times, I could not then even once express adequately the unalloyed pleasure of my fellow-travellers and myself in the generous welcome which you have extended to us from the first moment of our arrival in China. Our intimate experience with your eminent citizen, Mr. Hsu En-yuan, in our offices and in our homes had given us quite an exalted idea of the educated Chinese gentleman. We have not been disappointed. Kindliness, consideration and courtesy upon which the gentleman is built, have been thoroughly characteristic of your greeting to us. Even on the streets we have everywhere met crowds of smiling cheery faces, and I may add, faces expressing a great deal of intelligence. We extend to you our simple but most sincere thanks for your cordial greeting.

I cannot avoid a brief reference to the profound sympathy with which my people at home entertain toward your people in your struggle for national development and assertion. We believe that you have in common with us, an intense desire to make of your Government an instrument for the general betterment.

As business men we have come over here to study your resources, your methods, your supply of labor and with the intention of going back to our own people and report to them as to how in our humble judgment, we Americans may best hope to co-operate with you. We have been immensely impressed even in the small portion of China which we have seen, with your practically boundless agricultural capacity. Nor is the abundance of seemingly intelligent and certainly most industrious labor any less impressive and important. That China with such resources will in her own way repeat the marvellous history of her near neighbor, seems a very simple certainty to one blessed with American optimism.

What part can we Americans have in this industrial awakening of China? First of all, we understand that you will need capital, in large amounts, to finance construction, which however necessary and however profitable, cannot return its initial investment in a moment. You will need our machines and tools. In making these provisions we shall, of course, be doing a very good thing for ourselves but the profit of China will in the long run be greater by many times.

LOOK TO NEW CHINA

The task before you is perfectly huge. Not distant in the future one sees your country supplied with schools for a population already eager; with roads and railways, the telegraph and telephone, by wire and with postal communication with sanitary works; with all the vast and intricate machinery so necessary to balance production and to the development of the vital phases of your life. It staggers the mind to attempt to grasp the organising effort necessary to bring about these results. But I perceive about this table and thoroughly representative, I believe, of great men in all parts of your country and in all your provinces, men who have the vision, the patriotism and the capacity to lead in these great undertakings and to carry them to success.

Who shall dare to take any small view of this prospect? We are looking to a China which will not forget the grandeur of her past, her traditions and history and the high callings of life. But quite a New China in industry and democracy, A China to be trusted. A China to command the confidence of her own and all peoples. A China entering fully into the brotherhood of nations. A China relieved from the old humiliating international relations. A China of open doors to all who wish her well—with doors only so far closed as her own racial or physical necessities may dictate. A China from which will have been banished archaic concession and spheres of influence. A China making a great contribution to the welfare of the entire world.

U.S. SERVICE MEN HERE FORM CLUB

Major Arthur Bassett Heads Organisation To Join American Legion

Twenty-five Americans who saw service in the late war, either in the army or navy, held a supper and smoker last night at the American Club and followed it by organising the American Service Club of China, which, they hope, will be made a post of the American Legion.

Major Arthur Bassett was elected post commander of the new club and Mr. Don D. Patterson, lieutenant commander. Mr. H. E. Marsden was named post adjutant and Mr. R. W. French, quartermaster. A membership committee was decided upon with Mr. G. H. Christian as chairman, and a Constitutional Committee with Mr. William S. A. Potts as its head. Mr. H. E. Marsden was named chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

It was agreed that the new Club should hold a regular tiffin on the first Monday of each month. The first tiffin is set for December 8 at the Carlton Cafe.

Action was taken to determine whether the Club may become a part of the American Legion, the secretary being instructed to communicate with the central office of that body in New York seeking to make of this city the headquarters for the Far East.

The American Legion was organised in Paris in December, 918 with Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. Jr., General Pershing, Major Harvard and others as the first members. It is open to all who served in the American military and naval forces in the war. In July, 1919 a national convention was held in St. Louis.

Among those who were present at last night's meeting were Major A. Bassett, Captain Butland, Captain Kelly, Captain Pott, Messrs. R. French, B. Schul, H. Cavanaugh, R. Lane, R. L. Ward, J. H. Christian, M. L. Hotchkiss, P. Chatom, F. D. Green, H. E. Marsden, W. A. Bocker, O. E. Metz, D. D. Patterson, W. J. Bray, F. R. Rose, and Harry Ollerdessen.

CHINA MAIL HEAD DIES AT HONGKONG

Mr. Look Tin-eli Succumbs After Long Illness; Was Canton Bank President

Mr. Look Tin-eli, president of the China Mail Steamship Company and one of the original incorporators of the company died at Hongkong on November 21. Mr. Eli was also president of the Canton Bank. He had been ill for over seven months. The house flag at the China Mail office in Shanghai will be put at half mast for 30 days.

Municipal Bank Open Again Monday

Another rush of business is expected Monday at the Municipal Investment Bank, situated in the office of the Municipal Finance Department, 24A Kiangse Road. The first five days of each month are the regular deposit days when all investments are arranged to draw six percent beginning at once.

Deposits made after the five days draw no interest until the next month when they begin earning with the new sums deposited at that time.

The idea of the Municipal Bank is based upon the War Savings plan which operated so successfully in Shanghai last year. It is arranged that deposits that amount to Tls. 100 on March 5, 1920 shall be converted into Shanghai Municipal bonds which draw interest at seven percent.

Tsao Ju-Lin Not Student Member

Secretary P. K. Chu of the World Chinese Students' Federations yesterday denied that Tsao Ju-lin, the pro-Japanese official, is among the recruits of the membership campaign this year. Mr. Chu said officers of the federation suspended Tsao from membership and that he will not be reinstated.

In explaining how Tsao's name appeared in the membership roll which was printed last October, Mr. Chu said the name was allowed to appear because the federation wanted to save money. The forms of the roll were made of zinc plates, so of instead going to the trouble of remoulding the plates, the editor inserted a special notice in the announcement to the effect that several names which should have been struck out had been left in.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in civilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

The Children's Comfort—The Mother's Friend.

NOTICE

Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL much regret that for the first time for a hundred years war conditions prevent many of their products being shipped to China. They much appreciate the letters they are receiving, and in reply would state that it is fully recognised here that under the circumstances of life in China the absence of English delicacies and foods is a very real hardship.

Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL will take care that not a day shall be lost in forwarding supplies when a return to more normal conditions permits. In the meantime they trust that those who have been accustomed to rely on their products will be good enough to accept this explanation.

Weekly Cotton Market Reports

By A. B. Rosenfeld and Son

China Cotton.—During the past week there has been no decided change in the fundamental conditions of the market. Prices at the close to day are nearly the same as those of last week. The sudden spurt at the latter end of the week was the result of the rise in Mid-Americans. This attracted fair offerings which the actual demand and nervous shorts were unable to absorb. The market at the moment is holding easy but the temper of the trade continues bearish and considerable uncertainty is felt as to the future trend of prices.

Regarding the general outlook the legitimate surroundings of the situation continue to point to the probability of lower prices. Spinners are still showing apathy and the recent strength in the "Silver" situation only tends to increase their conservatism and seems to induce a policy of procrastination which will be followed as long as the state of the world's Silver markets shows an erratic aspect and it is difficult to predict whether natural conditions will be allowed to assert themselves in the distant future.

It would be unwise to disregard the effect of the strength of the months after Chinese New Year on the minds of the holders of the actual cotton and on the actions of speculators. Although the immediate future appears more or less involved we continue to believe in lower prices for the near months.

J. SPUNT AND CO.

China Cotton.—There has been but very little variation in prices during the past week when compared with those prevailing during the previous period and business remaining in a practically stagnant condition has evolved at the close a downward tendency.

The Mills both Foreign and Chinese appear to be well supplied for their immediate requirements which accounts for spot offerings, though at favorable rates, being neglected in favor of futures whereon, however, no business whatever resulted owing to holders being unwilling to part with their stocks at prices in no way commensurate with their ideas. Furthermore the high prices quoted for futures at the Shanghai Stock and Produce Exchange may be said to have encouraged holders in maintaining their firm attitude and it is very probable that the high rates still ruling in Mid-Americans and Sampin may have also contribute their quota of influence in that direction.

Under the present circumstances, therefore, having in view the still existent stringent monetary situation, it would be advantageous to buy spots as a safeguard against any sharp upward movement that may arise at any moment. Tone of the market, weak.

China Political Notes From Chinese Papers

The Italian air fleet will come to China early next month. The points of its route in China will be Fanyu, Kwangtung; Shanghai, Kiangsu; Tsinan, Shantung; and Peking, Chihli. The Cabinet yesterday ordered the military authorities along the route to furnish it the necessary protection.

As the manufacture of gold coins as introduced by Yunnan will upset the present currency system, the government has instructed the provinces to prohibit their circulation.

The Ministry of Justice delegates Mr. Liang Chi-tseng to proceed to Great Britain and France to investigate the judicial systems in these countries as a preliminary step toward the cancellation of the right of extra-territoriality in China.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs has requested the Dutch Minister to ask the Governments of Germany and Austria to pay at once the indemnity for Chinese prisoners of war.

The Government has instructed the Nanking Government Mint to hasten the coinage of silver dollars in order to relieve the shortage of dollars in Shanghai.

Siccawei Weather Report

27.—A vast anticyclonic system covers the whole map of the Far East, the central area (pressure about 30.85) extending from Lake Baikal to the Gulf of Pechihli; very regular gradient and wind diverging from the center in all directions. Weather cloudy or overcast in China, fine at Formosa.

28.—The pressure is going down. Northerly breezes still moderate. The approaching cold causes condensations and little rain at the early hours.

Japan Sees The Light

TWO decisions of utmost importance have just been made by the Imperial Advisory Council of Japan, according to the telegrams which we publish today. The news is made public by the official Kokusai News Agency and so is not open to doubt. The first decision is that Japan will not send more troops to Siberia. The second is that the Council has decided "to open negotiations with China with a view to the return of Kiaochow and an arrangement regarding the former German concessions in Shantung as soon as the Peace Treaty has been promulgated."

We propose to deal with the second decision first because it is, for the peace of the world, the more important. Japan's relations with China have reached a most critical stage and her relations with America are hardly more hopeful. The action of the American Senate in rejecting the Treaty of Peace and in reserving the rights of freedom of action as between Japan and China in regard to any future controversies arising out of the Shantung award, showed unmistakably where that body stood, and as we pointed out at the time, put the issue squarely up to Japan.

And here we have Japan's answer. She has now fixed a definite time for the opening of negotiations for the return of Kiaochow. For months past the American Government has been impressing upon Tokio the importance of doing this very thing, but without result, and it was not until the Senate turned down the whole Treaty of Peace rather than assent to the Shantung award that Tokio saw the light.

Perhaps, if Japan had acted earlier the Senate would have taken a different stand. As it is, however, now that Japan has taken her decision there is ground for hope that the Senate during the session which opens next Monday will see its way clear to a ratification of the Treaty. Europe we believe, will offer little, if any opposition, to the other proposed reservations. The big reservation which Europe could not accept was the one concerning Shantung and if Japan proceeds now to make good her verbal promises in that connection, the way will be opened to a compromise that will bring a real League of Nations into being.

Japan's other decision, that she will not increase her forces in Siberia, also comes at an opportune moment. It will be recalled that recently, when the Allies decided to withdraw, America proposed that Japan also should withdraw. This Japan declined to do. She felt that the spread of Bolshevism in Siberia was a menace to her and that she had the right to protect herself in this matter. The Allies' withdrawal and the defeat and retreat of Kolchak, however, soon put a different complexion on the situation. In other words, it become evident that if Japan, single-handed, was going to commit herself to a war on Bolshevism in Siberia, she was going to bite off more than she could chew, she was going tackle a job that would require vast armies and uncountable treasure, with practically no hope of recompense even in case of success. Her decision now, against sending more troops, is in our opinion a step in the right direction and one that will lead naturally to the second step—withdrawal along with the rest of the Allies. The Russians, left to themselves, will we believe, soon fight themselves out and be forced by their own pitiable condition to make their own peace.

Correspondence

REUTER'S SLANDER ON CHINA

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: On Monday last your paper contained the following item from Reuter:

"London, Nov. 18.—Stories of Bolshevist horrors continue to arrive through responsible (?) channels. Bodies exhumed at Kieff showed the application of the old Chinese torture of a pot fastened to the body of the victim with a live rat inside. The pot is then heated, causing the rat to endeavor to gnaw its way out.—Reuter." The question mark is mine.

I have waited several days so that some Chinese better qualified than myself might refute the calumny but as I have been 38 years in China, and have shown myself a champion of Truth and Justice during that long period, I may be allowed to take up the cudgels on behalf of China.

What makes the slander worse is that it is couched in language which leads the reader to believe that it was not a sporadic crime of a brutal wretch, but the practice of a nation, and that nation China.

The torture in question was invented in A.D. 1575 by Diedrich Seney, the Protestant Governor of North Holland, a man respected and admired by his subordinates, and inflicted on a Catholic under his jurisdiction, the Governor himself thoughtfully providing the rats.

I quote from page 30 of "The Rise of the Dutch Republic" (Vol. VI.) Motley has a great reputation as an historian, and as he was an American and a Protestant, he cannot be suspected of national or sectarian bias. The first Catholic, Kopp Cornelisszoon, died quickly under torture "to the great indignation of the tribunal."

"The son of Kopp, however, Nanning Koppezoon, was a man in the full vigor of his years. He bore with perfect fortitude a series of incredible tortures, after which, with his body singed from head to heel, and his feet almost entirely flayed, he was left for six weeks to crawl about his dungeon on his knees. He was then brought back to the torture-room, and again stretched upon the rack, while a large earthen vessel, made for the purpose, was placed, inverted, upon his naked body. A number of rats were introduced under the cover, and hot coals were heaped upon the vessel, till the rats, rendered furious by the heat gnawed into the very bowels of the victim, in their agony to escape. The holes thus torn in his bleeding flesh were filled with red hot coals. He was afterwards subjected to other tortures too foul to relate....."

After a false promise of pardon he was condemned to have his heart torn out from his living bosom and thrown into his face. Motley's foot note is also important:

"Bor, (VIII. 628), conscientiously furnishes diagrams of the machinery by aid of which this devilish cruelty was inflicted. The rats were sent by the Governor himself. Vide letter of the Commissioners to Soney apud Bor, VIII 640, 641. The whole letter is a wonderful monument of barbarity. The incredible tortures to which the poor creatures had been subjected are detailed in a business-like manner as though the transactions were quite regular and laudable. The Commissioners conclude with pious wishes for the Governor's welfare: 'Noble, wise, virtuous, and very discreet sir, they say, we have wished to appraise you of the foregoing, and we now pray that God Almighty may spare you with a happy, healthy and long-continued government.'"

King Albert Of Belgium

(By Mark Sullivan, in the American "Review of Reviews," New York)

These ceremonial calls with which the Allies are celebrating the ties that grew up among them through the fraternity of war, are an agreeable expression of a sentiment which lies in the most wholesome depths of human nature. Among all their best and most exalted that the nations have been sending to visit us, there is none better adapted to give America a sense of comradeship and kinship than King Albert of Belgium.

It is not a mere figure of speech, but the accurate statement of a probability that if fate had not called him to a throne he would today be a vice-president of the Great Northern Railroad, straightening out curves and reducing grades in North Dakota; leading a professional career not very much in the limelight, not much interested in the financial end of it, but preoccupied with the engineering side of work; and finding his most valued compensation in the pleasure of devising new ways to do the job better and better; living in a modest suburb of Minneapolis, urging his children to study hard and take plenty of exercise—he would be typical of the best that America has. His early education was in the line of civil engineering, and some twenty years ago he worked at it under the late James J. Hill.

In appearance he reminds one of General Leonard Wood—the upright and soldierly bearing that reflects stern living and physical discipline, coupled with a firmness and sharpness of countenance and expression which come from intense concentration, during the educational years, upon some form of science; the power of command, and the administrative ability that comes from self-discipline and accurate thinking.

The decision which King Albert made on that fateful summer day was one of the great decisions of history. "A country," he said to the emergency session of the Belgian Parliament on August 4, 1914—"a country which defends itself commands the respect of all; such a country will never perish; I have faith in our destiny; God will be with us in this just cause." A decision like that, a decision which in the course of time turns the course of history to a full right angle, is not made by a man whose mental processes have grown weak with soft living. It is good that the man who had to make it, who had to stand up to the crisis which came with the suddenness of a cannon-shot, was one who kept himself in hard mental training and whose emotions were keyed to be the best in human nature. That decision will make the name of Belgium live like Thermopylae. Belgium did not have much of a national personality nor much history. That decision gives her both. She was a buffer state, made up out of tag ends of land and peoples. Her beginning was as late as 1830, and Albert is only the third of her kings. But that decision to stand and fight gives her tradition and solidarity. Albert is probably as secure on his throne as any king on earth. He is what a modern king ought to be. He has the character and personality that fills the eye, and satisfies the human impulse for a figure to look up to. At the same time he has the intellectual qualities, the kind of training and the kind of interests which are called for in the job of administering a modern nation.

Once, when Colonel Roosevelt was in Europe he called upon a certain king (not Albert). The king, as he rose to receive Mr. Roosevelt, laid down a book, open, with the title on the back turned upward. Seeking an opening for the conversation, Colonel Roosevelt noticed that the book was Bryce's "American Commonwealth;" and when he made some allusion to it this king replied, "Yes, I am teaching my son to understand and administer a democracy." That is the conception which King Albert has of his position. I am told by one who I am sure knows that Albert has long been a regular subscriber to the American Review of Reviews, and when it fails to come, misses it, and has it looked up.

America can take off its hat to King Albert; it can admire him without the faintest reservation that closer knowledge might show a touch of clay; it can look up to him. While we shall see in him the physical figure that a king ought to have, we may not find in him the manners that a false and theatrical idea of royalty has led us to expect. The one thing that Albert could not possibly do is to be theatrical. He has lived through one of the most dramatic roles in all history, but there was never a moment when he was theatrical. He was at all times merely the chief engineer who happened to be responsible for the job at the moment the dam broke. Leading his army, his only preoccupation was technical excellence; on his throne he was dignified and simple; in his communications with other countries he was intent merely on clearness of expression.

But if we fail to find the manners of a stage king, most surely we shall see the manners of a very great man. He is simple and lacking in self-consciousness, except such self-consciousness as inclines him to modesty, almost to bashfulness. When he and the queen visit London, they stop at a hotel as plain citizens, go shopping, see a play or two, and slip home without the formal society of London knowing of their presence. When he ascended the throne, nearly ten years ago, there was a common saying in Brussels that he "went up with his wife and children."

Without taking himself seriously, nor his royalty seriously, he takes the job of administering Belgium with the utmost seriousness. He has that sense of responsibility that arises out of intellectual strength, the kind of moral integrity that a good engineer acquires. When he said that "the foundations of a nation's prosperity are the intellectual and moral forces of its people," he was not uttering a platitude nor repeating something he had read in a book; he was expressing, with that direct clearness of expression which his hard thinking gives him, something that he had thought out for himself. Always keeping that spiritual cornerstone of national policy, he has devoted himself with the force of a strong man and the skill of an engineer to the physical equipment of his nation. As he studied railroading under James J. Hill, so did he study shipping in England, and he makes speeches in the Belgian Senate which might perfectly well be the annual reports of the managing director of a great shipping corporation. He has the best personal equipment for managing a nation's business of any living monarch; and Belgium with the great endowment of prestige, national solidarity, and respect that the war has given her, under the administration of this still comparatively youthful king, will cut a figure among the nations far beyond her size and population.

Arms and the League

(From The Yomiuri, Tokio)

Arrangements for the military strength of the League of Nations are defective. As was explained by Mr. Lloyd George, the arms of Great Britain, France and America are now the guard of the League. Unfortunately, Great Britain and France are war-worn, while the opposition of the Senate prevents America from using her military forces to help restore order in Europe. This is the principal reason for the unsettled state of affairs in Europe, says the Yomiuri.

In our opinion, continues the Yomiuri, the order of the world will be completely restored when America has ratified the Peace Treaty and Great Britain and France have recovered from the fatigue of war. It should be remembered, however, that the order thus restored will be fraught with danger, for it is to be feared that the world may be placed under the despotism of Great Britain, America and France under the name of League of Nations. The present constitution of the League is not perfect, and efforts should be made gradually to eliminate the drawbacks. Perhaps a better form of League may be found in the French plan which was submitted to the Peace Conference. The French idea was to invest the League with military strength by making draft from the armies of various countries. If this strength is given to the League, any country, however powerful, will have to obey its rulings. It should be remembered that unless the League itself has military authority, it will be impossible after all to ensure the peace of the world.

In any case the fact that Europe is still in disorder points to the defects in the present form of the League of Nations. It should not be argued, however, that because of its defects the League should be dissolved. If such an idea is held by either individuals or nations, they should be thrown out of the comity of the civilised and humane world. If the League is defective, we should endeavor to improve it. It is public opinion which effects the improvement, and this is why a society has been formed in England in support of the League. A similar society should be organised in Japan, and we should consider ways and means of improving the League of Nations as well as of promoting its cause, concludes the Yomiuri.

The Turkish Flapper

(From The London Daily Express)

As one sees Constantinople today one is faced with a curious paradox. Trained as we are to regard the place as a typical Oriental center, we are confronted with the facts that the streets are well lit, the traffic is well handled, the habits of the inhabitants are becoming increasingly European and there exists a good tram service and a "tube."

The yashmak, or veil, which has for centuries served to hide the features of the Turkish fair from the vulgar gaze, is fast becoming a thing of the past. The women seem to wear it or not, as they deem fit. The flappers are all well dressed and carry canes. This latter phenomenon is probably due to the incursion in force of the British army officer.

One may talk of the deep seated Orientalism of this country till the cows come home, but the facts remain that the women now wear high heeled shoes, have discarded the veil and are carrying walking sticks.

Several open air cafes, brilliantly lighted, are running till 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning and nearly every restaurant boasts its own orchestra.

Why France Fears

(From The New York Tribune Paris Bureau)

Germany is already preparing for revenge, according to the general view in France. The belief that this is so has reached the hardness of a settled conviction, and Frenchmen are to-day able to mass behind their statements a volume of evidence which is—in their view, at any rate—impressive.

German army plans formed the subject of a letter sent not long since from Paris to The Tribune. These plans have now been set forth more clearly and in some detail, by a correspondent of Le Temps, who declares that he has secured his information from "a reliable source."

TREATY OR NO TREATY

Treaty or no treaty, he says, Germany means to have a great national army. What is more, she has actually available no fewer than 800,000 men, exactly double the number officially admitted by Minister of War Noske. This force of 800,000 is made up of the six divisions under General von der Goltz in Esthonia, of depots of the old field army not yet demobilised, of the official Reichswehr, and finally of corps which have been created in the various great centers of the country under the name of Freiwillige, on the plea that they are necessary for the maintenance of order.

The general plan of the Germans, as has been already explained, is to use the 100,000 Reichswehr allowed them by the treaty of peace as the framework of a great national force that can be called to the colors at any moment desired. So that we have this Reichswehr shown in the full light of day, while in a sort of twilight of preparation exist "reserves" called by various names in order to conceal from the Allies their real object and their place in the great scheme.

For the most part these "reserves" are known as Zeit-Freiwillige (temporary volunteers), called up once a week for drill and shooting exercises. They answer the call in field uniform, for each man keeps his kit and his arms at home. Each man has seen at least six months' service at the front during the great war. They are assembled in local detachments, named in accordance with their rallying point. Thus there is the Zeit-Freiwillige-Verband Wuerzburg, which is the detachment stationed at Wuerzburg, and is, in fact, the 23d Reserve Division of the Reichswehr.

ZEIT-FREIWILLIGE

It should be noted that the official circulars never fail to announce that the Zeit-Freiwillige will only be called up in case of absolute necessity, but this is equally true of all reserves recruited in time of peace for service in time of war. The Zeit-Freiwillige is a trained soldier, a veteran of the World War, who agrees to give up fifteen days each year to training, and to obey the call to service whenever it may come.

These are not the only "reserve" corps which are springing up in all parts of Germany. The Volkswehr of the revolution have today become the Einwohnerwehr, a sort of bourgeois national guard. The force has changed its name, and perhaps its spirit, but it is nevertheless still composed of men who—though they do not wear uniform—keep their arms at home, and are marshalled into companies, battalions and regiments during their periods of training.

A FRAMEWORK

Under the German plan the distinctive names and separate character of these "reserves" would disappear when the call sounded. They would then go to fill out the "cadres" waiting for them. First of these "cadres" is the Reichswehr of 100,000 men, then there is the special police force known as Sicherheits-Polizei, and finally, in great number, come the regimental unions and the veteran societies, known, respectively, as Regimentsvereine and Kriegenvereine.

Let there be no doubt of the ability of the Reichswehr to act as the framework of a force thus called into being. It is known that the private soldiers of the Reichswehr include no fewer than 50,000 non-commissioned officers of the old German army, of service ranging from seven to eleven years. What is true of the Reichswehr is also true of the Sicherheits-Polizei, which is formed in large measure of former non-coms. The Berlin police alone includes 1,200 such men, and in large numbers of towns all over the country the Sicherheits-Polizei is strongly organised and has the cohesion and the military value of a regiment. More by token, it is armed with machine guns, with camions, with armored cars, with flamethrowers, asphyxiating gas and all the other concomitants of modern war.

VIA MEXICO

Here, then, is the German national army of tomorrow in embryo. The authorities are going about the business of making it ready with little care to hide what they are doing. Since the budget of the Ministry of War is examined by the Allies, various expenditures necessary to the new army are born on the books of other departments of state. For instance, when the great General Staff was dissolved, the transport service passed unchanged under the control of the Ministry of Railways and the geographic section under the Ministry of the Interior.

And munitions?

This is the news that reaches Paris from Vienna:

"The Germans intend to send into Mexico, one of the few countries which did not declare war against them, 250,000 men, there to erect munition factories and to engage in the manufacture of war material. The peace treaty forbids Germany to manufacture munitions in Germany, but not elsewhere."

Also: "The Krupp factories, which can no longer make guns, are turning out forty locomotives a day."

French War Secrets

(New York Tribune)

France is beginning to lift the lid on her military secrets. The failure of General Nivelle's offensive of April, 1917, northeast of Soissons, has always been a subject of official mystification and extravagant rumors. Nivelle was removed from the command of the French armies because of his non-success. For a long time many people in France accepted the legend that his operation, though full of promise, had been called off because of the protests of members of the Chamber of Deputies, who visited the front and were appalled by the French losses.

M. Painleve was Secretary of War in Ribot's Cabinet when the Second Battle of the Aisne was fought. He said, the other day, in a speech in the Chamber that Nivelle's assaults failed because the Germans had captured a French officer, whose papers disclosed the French commander's plans. Ludendorff concentrated machine guns at the main points of attack and mowed down the assailants. The French lost 45,000 men killed in ten days' fighting—not 15,000 as earlier reports stated.

This heavy loss undoubtedly inspired the complaint of the poilus that Nivelle had attacked without adequate artillery preparation. It was rumored in 1917 that some French divisions went on a passive strike as a protest against such unnecessary sacrifice.

Certainly grave demoralisation followed the collapse of the Aisne offensive. French historians, like General Zurlinden, were allowed by the censor to tell of the raising of the red flag by a body of troops which marched on the Soissons station, intending to seize trains and go to Paris.

General Petain's appointment to succeed Nivelle checked this spirit of unrest. The soldiers had faith in him and he succeeded in reorganising the army and putting it in shape for the greater tests of 1918.

For France 1917 was the critical year of the war. It was the year of the Defeatist intrigues and of unusual instability in the Chamber of Deputies. It marked a reaction following the strain in 1916 at Verdun and the Somme.

The French government was prudent in concealing, as far as possible, the extent of Nivelle's setback. But that setback had its compensations in the fact that it opened the way to Petain's promotion and to a larger utilisation of the genius of Marshal Foch.

His Handicap

(From The London Morning Post)

A visitor to a Southern golf links asked the courteous secretary if he could find him an opponent. "I am sure," said the official, "Mr. So-and-So over there will be glad to have a round." The visitor approached Mr. So-and-So, a gentleman of a ruddy countenance, and, after the customary courtesies, asked the usual question, "What is your handicap?" The reply was short and to the point: "Drink, sir!" But they do say that there are in Scotland golfers who would not be "plus" players if it were not for a judicious devotion to—well, it is very hard to get more than enough nowadays!

How To Acquire Wealth As A Journalist

At a recent meeting of British journalists the chairman told the following story: I met a newspaper man today who came to Fleet Street twenty years ago with exactly 25s. in his pocket. He is now worth £40,000. He owes that entirely to his own ability and energy, combined with good health and a high code of ethics—and to the fact that an uncle recently died and left him £39,995.

Dead Language

(From an article in School by Clyde R. Jeffords, president of the High School Teachers' Association of New York.)

Unfortunately the teacher of classics is too often the kind of person least qualified to adapt ancient language to a modern environment. Teachers as a whole are notoriously conservative, and specialists in Latin and Greek are likely to be the worst of the lot in that respect. The teacher who presents Latin today with the methods and purposes that obtained in English schools a century ago is probably the worst enemy classical study has, and if Latin is switched off into the same rusty sidetrack with Greek in secondary education it will be chiefly because Latin teachers have failed to make the readjustment demanded by the present strategic strength and weaknesses of their position.

Several adverse conditions also are preventing the American pupil from getting the full benefit of the practical training possible in classical work. Salaries paid to teachers of classics are no longer sufficient to attract the best class of college graduates to teaching positions. This, together with the craze for rapid advancement now dominating large schools, has caused a lowering of the standard of education and a consequent tendency to follow the line of least resistance. This leads to "ponies" and "cribbing," a shortened and cheapened curriculum, overcrowded classes and overpromotion. A comparison of our examinations with those of English schools fifty years ago shows this deterioration very clearly. We are inclined to train for facts rather than power, to harvest the chaff and lose the grain.

Such methods will no longer satisfy the demands of modern public education, which is becoming intensely practical and direct. Educational leaders are breaking away from the traditions of the past and are evolving a curriculum designed to satisfy the educational needs of the average pupil in the average American school of the twentieth century. Obviously these needs are not the same as those of the gentleman's son in the private school of the eighteenth century, from which our present school curriculum was derived and which our classical syllabi still follow to a great extent. As a result of this failure to readjust, Greek is obsolescent, if not obsolete, in secondary schools and many colleges. Latin is losing ground gradually and will soon follow Greek unless its supporters can force themselves to disregard ancient traditions and present the subject from the standpoint of modern American needs and values in education.

A long step in bringing Latin work up to date has been taken in the new state syllabus for New York, which puts the English side of the work emphatically in the foreground. The text to be read is longer but simpler than before and selected for content and interest rather than stylistic or grammatical features. These changes make it possible for the progressive teacher to develop the one universally important power which classical training can and should give the single factor which outweighs all the others together in educational value—fluency in expressing complex ideas in clear, idiomatic English. The boy trained to make a rapid, offhand analysis of a complicated proposition, rearranging it into logical sequence and presenting it concisely in correct and forcible language, has an acquisition which is of immense value to any man in any activity almost every day of his life. It is especially valuable in all cases where leadership and executive ability are required.

Such training can be and constantly is secured through the right kind of classical training under the right kind of teachers. It is exactly the kind of training that is provided by rapid oral translation of classics when properly conducted. The pupil has before him a long periodic sentence which he is to represent in English. If the teacher can and will compel his pupils to make a clear, concise, idiomatic translation and can cover enough ground to afford plenty of practice, no better drill in rapid oral English composition can be devised. No one will question the value of training a boy to think and talk on his feet, to get to the point and get there quickly and to say neither more nor less than he wishes to say. Upon the successful development of this feature of classical training depends very largely the future of the classics in secondary education in this country.

Industrial Slavery In Japan

Of 450,000 workers engaged in the textile industries in Japan two-thirds are women, and of these women one half are under the age of 20, says the Japan Advertiser. They are mostly between 14 and 18. Not a few are under 14. A majority of these girls of tender years (about two-thirds) are recruited from the country and live in factory dormitories. Only a minority live in the factory district and know something of home life.

According to statistics prepared by Dr. Yoshihara, several years ago, half of the women workers leave their work in less than one year. And of this half more than two-fifths quit in less than six months. Only a small percentage serve the second and the third years. Only a little over ten per cent stay at work as long as five years. If this is an accurate index, each factory has to recruit one half of its working force every year and a quarter of it every six months. As a matter of fact, there are hosts of recruiting commissioners scattered all over the country, who sneak into poor homes and entice little girls away from their mothers with all sorts of promises of education and alluring opportunities of city life. Now and there glaring instances of this scandal leak out to the public. The following story is taken from one of the current magazines.

THE "IMPERIAL PLACE"

It is told by a girl of 16, who recently escaped from a cotton spinning factory in Saitama-ken not far from Tokio. We spare the name of the factory. The girl was brought, when she was only 12 years of age, from some remote country home at Hokkaido to the "imperial place," as she herself describes it, by a strange gentlemen, who was of course one of those recruiting commissioners and who gave, if she remembers correctly, a five yen bill to her mother. How he did it, she can't recall, but she remembers distinctly that she was very cheerful about accompanying the gentlemen and felt that she was being taken from the snow buried northern country to a warm and luxurious city. It was a cheerful journey for she had five companions and they talked all the way about Tokio, which they had never seen. The train stopped at a country station and from there they were obliged to walk to the factory under the guidance of another strange man. I shall omit the sentimental stuff of the poor girl's story. She lived in the factory dormitory, with six seniors, all together in a little room of six mats, and at the bidding of fate went to work like the rest, from six in the morning until six in the evening or vice versa, and frequently very much longer, at piece rate wages which she could not compute and the record of which was kept only in the company's books without her knowledge.

PHYSICAL PUNISHMENT

Repeated attempts to escape were of no avail and brought her only severe chastisements. If her story is true her body was never free from the marks of beating. One day, she tells us, she was stripped naked before other girls and beaten and kicked and dragged by the hair. When she was obstinate she was tied with rope and hung on a cherry tree until she exhausted herself crying. Unwillingly, with desperate resignation, she served a little over three years, and when she finally succeeded in escaping and sought protection at the nearby police station, she was in debt 60 yen to the company! Three years' constant work and sixty yen in arrear! That is how her account in the company's book stands. She knows nothing and can't defend herself. She is only sure that the strange gentleman who brought her to this plight gave her mother a five yen bill.

Gold And Silver Production

Gold and silver production of the United States during the calendar year of 1918 dropped $15,104,000 in the gold output and 3,930,223 ounces in the silver production, according to estimates of the Treasury Department.

Total production of gold of the country in 1918 was estimated at 3,320,784 ounces, with a value of $68,646,700, while the production of silver in the same period amounted to 67,810,139 ounces, with an estimated value of $66,485,129. Gold production in 1917 amounted to $83,750,700 and silver 71,740,362 ounces.

California led the States in gold production by turning out 811,945 ounces, with a value of $16,784,400. Next in line came Colorado, with 615,558 ounces, valued at $12,724,700. Alaska, with 455,920 ounces, valued at $9,424,700, was third.

In the production of silver Montana was leader with an output during the year of 16,378,263 ounces, valued at $16,058,232. Utah came next with a production of 13,492,555 ounces, valued at $13,228,911, and then Nevada with 9,931,969 ounces, valued at $9,737,898.—Guaranty Trust Co.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE

The decline in the export trade indicated by the July figures did not continue in August, says the Bulletin of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. The value of exports in August was $646,279,614, or $76,000,000 more than in July. The value in August, 1918, was $527,013,916. Imports in August were valued at $308,010,460, a decrease of $35,000,000 as compared with July, but a substantial gain over the $273,002,914 recorded for August, 1918. The excess of exports over imports was $338,269,154, as compared with $254,011,002 in August, 1918. For the eight months ending with August, exports were valued at $5,275,000,000, as compared with $4,009,000,000 for the corresponding months of 1918. Imports were valued at $2,061,000,000 for these same months this year, against $2,263,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1918. Gold to the amount of $45,189,318 was exported in August, as against imports of $2,490,489.

All Accounted For

One morning a woman walked into a village grocery store with a majestic stride. It was easy to see by the sternness of her expression that she was somewhat disturbed.

"This," she sarcastically explained, throwing a package on the counter, "is the washing itself. It's the soap that makes washing a pleasure. It's the soap—"

"That isn't soap, madam," interrupted the grocery man, examining the package. "Your little girl was in here yesterday for a half pound of cheese and a half pound of soap. This is the cheese."

"U-m, that accounts for it, said the woman, as the light of understanding began to glow. "I wondered all night what made the Welsh rarebit we had for supper taste so queer."—San Francisco Argonaut.

'THE AWAKENING OF ASIA'

The Awakening Of Asia. By H. M. Hyndman. Boni and Liveright.

In the summer number of Books and the Book World, John Spargo named H. M. Hyndman's "The Awakening of Asia" as among the few books that had interested him most during his past year's reading. "In all his brilliant and versatile career," Mr. Spargo wrote, "Mr. Hyndman has produced nothing of greater value than this interpretation of Asiatic developments," and he added that he placed the work "in a class by itself." Since both Spargo and Hyndman are Socialists it is only natural that the American should take an unusually deep interest in the work of his British colleague. But its literary and historical qualities apart, it is doubtful if most readers will place Mr. Hyndman's judgments and opinions on so high a plane as does Mr. Spargo, for the simple reason that most of us do not believe in the imminence of "the Japanese peril," that India under British rule is a gross injustice to the native population, nor that the Western world may yet again see one of those Oriental hordes sweeping across both Europe and America as was the occasional custom of Asiatic races in the ancient and Middle Ages.

In this reporter's estimation Mr. Hyndman is at his best in his chapters on China, where it is somewhat startling to read "that white men were fatal to Asiatics," and that the Chinese failed time and again to make headway against their enemies because "they were too civilised for their epoch in every sense." Mr. Hyndman's presentation of the China that was and that of the China he sees coming is of particular interest to all students of man and of history who realise what a great race is the Chinese. No one who takes thought for the relations of the United States with China, Japan, Great Britain and France should fail to read this work for its facts even if he disagrees with its judgments.

Cuba To Be Mecca For Thirsty Americans

When Prohibition is in full working swing in the United States, those who would like a "fine time" when on a holiday, with all the cocktails and other sundry beverages that a long holiday spell suggests, will go to Cuba, which, is making capital of the legislative enactments in favor of prohibition in the United States says the Japan Advertiser of November 18. Americans who object to being hobbled in the pursuit of pleasure will go to the Pearl of the Antilles which will establish herself as the Monaco of America.

AMERICAN VIRTUES

Cuba is proceeding with confidence and enthusiasm upon the theory proved repeatedly on Broadway, on the Riviera, in the Montmartre of Paris, that Americans shed the rigorous virtue of the Pilgrim Fathers as soon as they get out of the immediate vicinity of home. Her preparations were undertaken as soon as the several States began, with the regularity of a tolling bell, to ratify the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. The character of some of them is indicated by various moves made during the last few weeks. Moral bars, never so high they could not be easily hurdled, have been further lowered, and vast quantities of wines and liquors from Europe, which in other circumstances would find a market in the United States, are going to Cuba instead.

Under a new enactment, known as the tourist law, 70 applications have been filed recently for gambling concessions. Gambling for stakes of consequence heretofore has been confined to the race course and numerous clubs, but now it is proposed to erect casinos, like the roulette and baccarat palaces of Monte Carlo and the South of France, in various cities which hope to share in the era of unprecedented prosperity expected to result from national prohibition in the United States.

CLEOPATRA'S BATH

A concession of another sort covers, it is said, the purpose of a certain person from Boston to erect in a private park of royal palms a marble villa with a marble pool in which nymphs, chosen with the same care as the chorus girls of some of the more frivolous New York stage productions, will try to make it as seductive as Cleopatra's bath.

"This," says a writer, "is the first time since the United States went to war that I have been able to get a drink of good American whisky in a high-class bar or cafe for 15 cents. A fact! And at the best hotels the smoothest cocktail in the world can be had for a quarter.

"The other day," he continues, with growing enthusiasm, "I saw the French liner Marseilles come in with 84,000 quarts of the finest French champagne. A day or two before that a Spanish ship landed a cargo of wines, and last week another French ship brought over a vast quantity of cognac, brandies, and cordials.

"There are three big breweries here. One of them, which I am told is controlled by the Lippmans of Newark, has an output of 20,000,000 bottles a year. Another is in the midst of a garden prettier far than Trommer's, over in Brooklyn, ever was.

"I intend to live in Cuba; and attend to business in the United States by mail.

"There is enough liquor now in Havana to keep a million people happy indefinitely. And the prices—champagne $4 a quart, rum a dime. Bacardi 95 cents a quart, beer 5 cents per mansize glass or 10 cents a bottle. Man, this is the paradise of dry-throated Americans. But the queer thing is with all this temptation, you never see a Cuban drunk."

Americans resident in the island promptly perceived the possibilities of Cuba's position in the present circumstances. The business element has now organised an American Chamber of Commerce, headed by Frank Steinhart, who went to Cuba as Quartermaster Sergeant of the American forces 21 years ago became our first Consul-General, and now, rated as a millionaire, controls the electric lighting and the traction service of Havana and its environs.

German Swindlers Find Many Victims

Country Suffering From An Epidemic Of Crime And Frauds Of All Kinds

Berlin, September 10, (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Germany has increasingly taken to crime since the revolution, and the once orderly empire, where pickpockets were almost unknown and holdups and robberies created a sensation, is undergoing an epidemic of crime. Probably no system has proved more effective than, in these days of uncertainty and change, playing the official or impersonating a soldier or a policeman.

Recently two clever criminals, who discovered that a certain man had concealed in his house 115,000 marks in notes of the old type, and liable to confiscation, had frightened him into surrendering the money, on the promise of escaping prosecution.

A real official who had nosed out the plot entered just in time to see the transfer of the money and really did confiscate it, besides arresting the three men.

More successful was another false official scheme. Here a group succeeded in inducing a man who had hoarded 50,000 marks in bills to sell them at a handsome profit The deal was in progress when fellow conspirators, posing as officials, appeared, confiscated the money, and robbed the owner.

The airplane was used to capture criminals when the authorities got wind recently of an attempt to carry 20,000,000 marks on an express train to Munich, whence the money was to be smuggled across the Swiss border.

Robberies at railroad stations from freight cars have been increasing to a great extent. Countless cases of false papers for the delivery of goods have been discovered, usually after it was too late.

Two freight carloads of bacon found lying on a siding at a suburban station led to the discovery of a huge swindle originating in Holland, conducted from the Rhineland, and making use of false bills of lading. Many railroad men were involved in a small way for their share in handling the faked bills of lading.

The constant swindling extends to every imaginable kind of food and raw material. A young man appeared recently at a storehouse in Central Berlin and asked to have some cases stored. When the warehouse watchman saw the cases he was suspicious because they came from the imperial textile plant at Zwickau. So he reported the presence of the cases. Investigation showed 5,000 yards of textiles worth 120,000 marks, and the young man was captured by a ruse. He had procured the cloth on a forged order bearing the signature of the textile authorities.

Where Friendship Ends

"It is wrong to envy any man his prosperity."

"Of course, it is," replied Cactus Joe. "But when Tarantula Tim holds three ace fulls in succession, we're entitled to indulge in a certain amount of inquisitiveness about the deck and the deal."—Washington Star.
